Turning 99

By Daryl Fisher

MARY SILVA

This past weekend, longtime local resident Mary Silva celebrated her 99th birthday among family and friends at her home in West Sacramento, where she has lived for more than half a century.

Mary was born on January 29, 1908 and was raised on the family farm, which was located near the little rural community of Frazee, Minnesota.

"Boy was it cold in the winters and hot in the summers," recalled Mary, who was the last of nine children, all of whom had plenty of chores to do to help out on the farm. "There was always cows to milk or work that needed to be done in the garden, and when we needed water, we had to walk all the way down the hill to get some from the pump. The soap we used was made with fat and lye and I didn't even know there were such things as a toothbrush and toothpaste until I started school. Oh, and toilet paper was not heard of back then."

Like all of her siblings and friends, Mary was educated in a one-room red school house, which had one teacher.

"Grades one through eight were taught in that little room," said Mary, "and we all had to be good and behave ourselves."

When she was young, going to church was the highlight of Mary's week, and when she finished her education, she hired herself out to do domestic work, which ended up taking her all the way to Kansas, where she was employed by a well-to-do family with a big house.

"I worked there for seven or eight years," remembered Mary, "and I learned all kinds of new and interesting things. They had electricity and modern appliances and since this was during the Depression, I was very lucky to be living in such a nice place."

When Mary returned to Minnesota for a visit, she met a very nice young man and they were married in 1940.

"We hadn't been married very long when World War II started," said Mary, "and David went off to fight in it, but he never came back. He was killed in Italy, and even to this day, I wonder what my life may have been like if he had returned to me."

After David's death, Mary decided to go to business college and then she joined her older sister, who was living in Oakland, California. She got a job working at a resort in Lake Tahoe and then met Tony Silva, whom she married.

"I believe we bought our home in West Sacramento around 1955," said Mary, "and back then the price was less than $8,000. We never had any children, and Tony died in 1977. But I spent 25 years working at the McCurry Camera Company in downtown Sacramento and since I have always believed in hard work, that kept me good and busy. Plus for many years I was a member of the Sierra Camera Club and won quite a few awards for my pictures, so that turned out to be a wonderful hobby."

With the exception of a couple of hip replacements and the broken leg she is currently recovering from, Mary is in pretty good health.

"I have no idea how I've managed to live this long," said Mary with a smile. "I quick smoking and drinking many years ago, so maybe that helped, but I haven't really done anything special. I have a couple of people come to the house everyday to help me, and then I spend quite a bit of my extra time reading."

When asked how West Sacramento has changed over the years, Mary said, "Well, it's nothing like it used to be, but I guess the biggest change I've noticed is on my own block, where all the people I used to know have either died or moved away, and in their place are their children, or even their children's children. But I still have lots of friends in West Sacramento, and I have always enjoyed having lunch at the VFW or spending time at the Senior Center. Plus Our Lady of Grace Catholic Church still brings me my communion and I really appreciate that."

"Even at 99," said Mary Sanchez, who is one of Mary's loyal caregivers, "Mary is smarter than a lot of people I know. Plus she's never bossy, or grumpy, or grouchy, and I really enjoy her company. She has a very good sense of humor, and since we both love to garden, we have lots of fun

A bid for state office

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

West Sacramento Mayor Christopher Cabaldon is out of the gate early, having announced his candidacy for the 8th District Assembly race yesterday at a campaign kick-off in Davis. He is the first major declared candidate in the race to fill the shoes of Davis Democrat Lois Wolk, who will be "termed out" of her seat at the end of 2008. Term limits restrict an assemblyperson to three two-year terms.

"Partly, I'm running for policy reasons and partly it's to be an advocate for this community," Cabaldon told the News-Ledger yesterday. "I want to be an advocate for us on the state level for issues that make a difference. A lot of the issues we're bumping up against during the evolution of our town require action at the state level – including levees, 'green' (environmentally sound) building methods, even climate change. The same with the evolution of our waterfront and the development of our local state college campus."

Cabaldon, a Democrat, ran unsuccessfully for the assembly seat in the party primary in 2002 against Wolk, so this would be his second attempt – with better regional name recognition. He will face any other Democratic contenders in a primary in June, 2008, and if successful, go to the general election in November, 2008.

If he wins the assembly seat, it will come as his current term for mayor expires. And if he becomes the Democrats' nominee for the post in the June 2008 primary, he will not concurrently run for another term as mayor to "cover his bets," he told the News-Ledger.

MAYOR CHRISTOPHER CABALDON

'Being mayor here has taught me a lot about diverse viewpoints and about the power of transformation. If you're creative and believe in your own ideas, you can really get things done.'
-- Christopher Cabaldon

The district is regarded as safely Democratic, and includes most of Yolo and most of Solano County. The nearly-half million person district includes the cities of West Sacramento, Davis, Woodland, Fairfield, Vacaville and other communities.

Shortly after graduating from UC Berkeley, Cabaldon worked as a legislative staffer. He know serves as president of EdVoice, an educational advocacy nonprofit.

"Being mayor here has taught me a lot about diverse viewpoints," he said, "and about the power of transformation. If you're creative and believe in your own ideas, you can really get things done."

What about getting results at the state level?

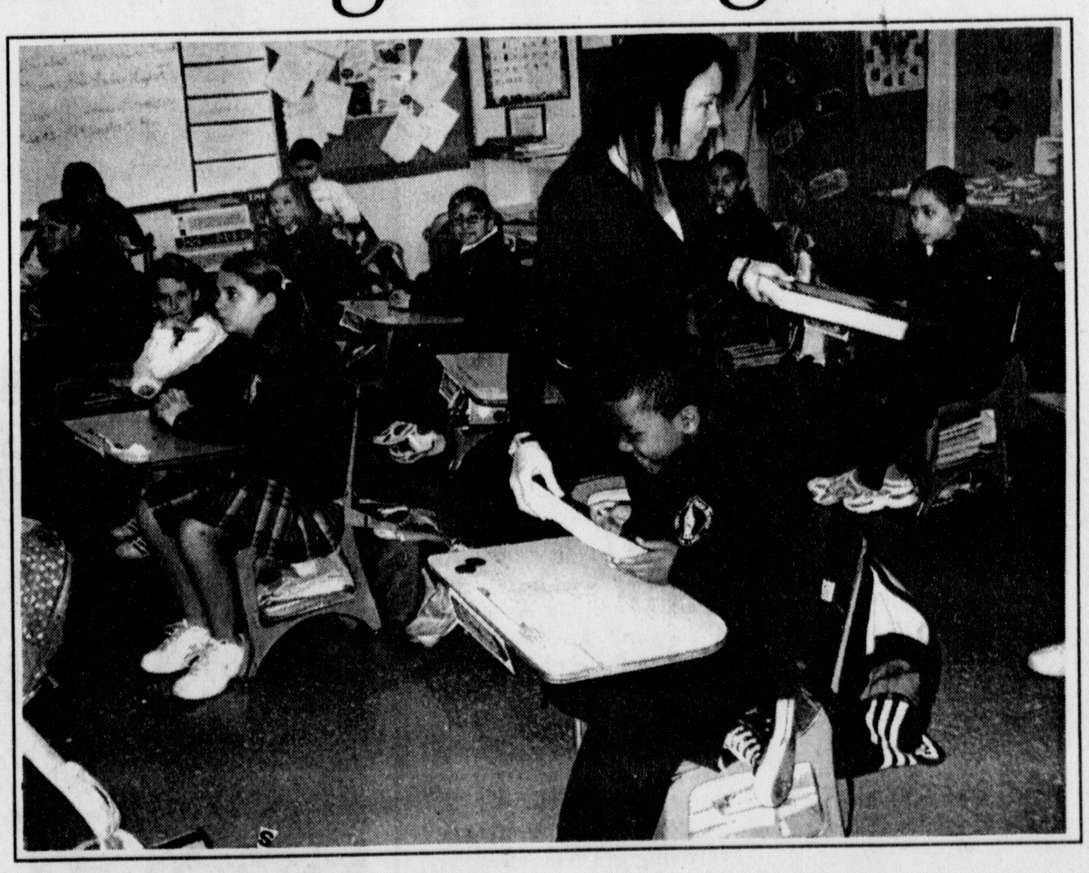

"It is harder to get things done at the legislative level," Cabaldon allowed. "I'm better equipped now from my experience in West Sacramento."

Among the supporters scheduled to attend Cabaldon's kickoff were Yolo Supervisor Mike McGowan of West Sacramento and Supervisor Helen Thomson of Davis – herself a former Assemblywoman. Another Yolo County supervisor, Mariko Yamada, has been rumored as a potential rival for the assembly post – but she could not immediately be reached Tuesday for comment.

Wolk is laying the groundwork for a run at the seat of State Senator Mike Machado in 2008. Machado will also be subject to term limitations at that time.

Rotary clubs bring spelling, definition & usage to 4th graders

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

West Sacramento's two Rotary clubs are in the middle of an effort to give every public school fourth grader in West Sacramento a personal dictionary.

Michael Brady, a member of the afternoon-meeting "Centennial" Rotary Club in West Sacramento, explained the partnership with Rotary's morning-meeting chapter in the city.

"We have a joint program with the afternoon Rotary Club," said Brady, an architect by trade. "We are just starting an annual giveaway to students at West Sacramento schools," providing dictionaries that are "theirs to keep."

Last week, volunteers handed out dictionaries to third graders at the Our Lady of Grace private school, also selected for the giveaway. At public schools, the books will go to fourth graders, because the local Elks Club has already given away dictionaries to third graders.

"They were very happy," Brady said of the Our Lady of Grace students. "The dictionaries have an atlas, maps and other good info. In each one, we put a name sticker inside, dedicating the book to them from the Rotary Club."

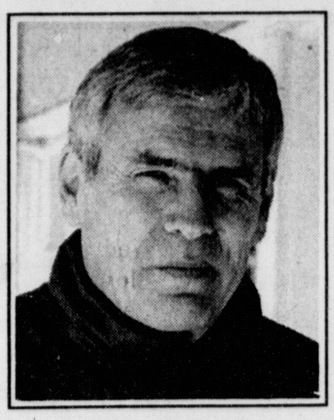

Barry Kalar of the "afternoon" Rotary chapter was a project organizer. He is also a local school board member.

"We haven't delivered them all yet – we're still trying to get that scheduled with the elementary schools, which are now coming back from winter break," Kalar told the News-Ledger. "We ordered just under 600 of them. Basically, every fourth grader in Washington Unified is going to have one. They have a reading program in the fourth grade that this will work nicely with."

Each of the nearly-600 dictionaries comes at about $8.50.

 A medical student was doing his rotation in toxicology at the local poison control center when a woman called in, very upset because she caught her little daughter eating ants. He quickly assured the woman that the ants were not harmful and that there was no need to bring her daughter into the hospital. She finally calmed down, but at the end of the conversation, she happened to mention that she gave her daughter some ant poison to eat in order to kill the ants she had ingested. The medical student then informed the woman she needed to get her daughter to the hospital as soon as possible.

 A man, wanting to rob a downtown Bank of America, walked into the branch and wrote the following note on a deposit slip: "Put all your muny in this hear bag." While standing in line, waiting to give his note to the teller, he began to worry that someone may have seen him write the note and might call the police before he reached the teller's window. So he left the Bank of America and crossed the street to the Wells Fargo Bank. After waiting a few minutes in line, he handed his note to the Wells Fargo teller. She read it and, surmising from his spelling errors that he wasn't the brightest light in the harbor, told him that she could not accept his stickup note because it was written on a Bank of America deposit slip and that he would either have to fill out a Wells Fargo deposit slip or go back across the street to the Bank of America. Looking somewhat defeated, the man said, "Okay" and left. He was arrested a few minutes later, as he was waiting in line back at Bank of America.

 A motorist was unknowingly caught in an automated speed trap that measured his speed using radar and also photographed his car and his car license number. A few weeks later he received in the mail a ticket for $200, and the photos of his car and car license. But instead of making payment and putting the whole thing to bed, the man sent the police department a photograph of two $100 bills. Several days later, he was arrested at his home for failure to pay his ticket.

 A pair of Michigan robbers entered a record shop nervously waving revolvers. The first one shouted, "Don't nobody move!" When his partner suddenly moved, the startled first bandit wheeled around and shot him.

 A man living in a semi-rural area of Georgia called the local township administrative office to request the removal of the "Deer Crossing" sign on his road, which was only a couple of hundred feet from his house.

When asked why, the man replied, "Because too many deer are being hit by cars out here and I don't think this is a very good place for them to be crossing the road anymore."

 A married couple arrived at an automobile dealership to pick up their new car and were told that the keys had accidently been locked inside it. They then went to the service department and found a mechanic working feverishly to unlock the driver's side door. As the couple watched from the passenger side of the car, the husband instinctively tried the passenger door handle and much to his surprise, found the door to be unlocked.

"Hey," said the husband, "this one over here is open!"

"I know," replied the mechanic, "I've already done that side."

 A guy walked into a little corner store with a shotgun and demanded all of the money from the cash drawer. After the cashier put the money in a bag, the robber saw a bottle of Scotch that he wanted behind the counter on the shelf. He told the cashier to put it in the bag, too, but the very conscientious cashier refused and said, "I'm sorry -- but I can't."

"Why?" demanded the robber.

"Because I don't think you are over 21."

The robber insisted that he was, but the clerk still refused to give him the bottle of Scotch, so the robber reached into his back pocket, pulled out his wallet, took his driver's license out, and handed it to the clerk.

"There," said the robber, "now can I have the damn Scotch?"

The clerk carefully looked over the robber's driver's license, finally agreed that the man was indeed over 21, put the Scotch in the bag, and the robber ran from the store with his loot.

The cashier then promptly called the police and gave them the name and address of the robber that she had gotten off his driver's license. They arrested the robber two hours later.

It's here! Order your food and drinks early and set your TV to Channel 13 (HD) on Sunday at 3:25 p.m. for Super Bowl XLI in Miami – It's the Chicago Bears vs Indianapolis Colts.

Most of the media and football experts are picking Peyton Manning and the Colts to win the Vince Lombardi Trophy over the Da Bears. The Colts will serve as the visiting team in Super Bowl XLI. At stake with the Super Bowl XLI crown is the Vince Lombardi Trophy, a sterling silver trophy named after the late legendary coach before Super Bowl V.

The Chicago Bears will be playing for the tenth NFL title in their 87-season franchise history when they meet the Colts at Dolphin Stadium. Friday will mark the 21st anniversary of the Bears' 46-10 drubbing of the New England Patriots in Super Bowl XX.

On the other hand, the Colts or Indianapolis earned its third Super Bowl berth in club history. The Colts played in two of the first five Super Bowls, dropping a 16-7 upset verdict to the underdog New York Jets on January 12, 1969 in Super Bowl III, before topping the Dallas Cowboys, 16-13, on January 17, 1971 in Super Bowl V. The Colts will be appearing in their first Super Bowl since moving to Indianapolis in 1984.

Indianapolis (29) and Chicago (26) own the most victories in the NFL over the last two seasons, including the playoffs, and head into Super Bowl XLI tied for the most overall victories in the NFL this year with 15.

Chicago earned the No. 1 seed in the NFC and its second straight NFC North crown with a 13-3 record before winning the first two games of the postseason. Indianapolis finished the year with the No. 3 seed in the AFC while earning its fourth consecutive AFC South title with a 12-4 mark before winning its first three-playoff contests.

The question everybody is asking is – Who is going to win Super Bowl XLI? The Colts won the most recent meeting between the teams played in 2004 at Soldier Field, their only victory over the Bears in five skirmishes since moving to Indianapolis in 1984.

Anyway, sit back, relax and enjoy the day because Super Bowl XLI is HERE! – Oh, by the way, don't forget to TIVO all those great commercials and Prince and the lovely Beyonce Knowles will be performing during the half-time festivities.

Aztec's Super Bowl Pick

The Dawg is upset with me because I promised him a Super bowl ticket but ticket prices are off the dog chain! I've attended nine Super Bowls in my life starting with the 49ers vs Dolphins in Super Bowl XIX in 1985 and I only paid $60 per ticket.

Today, Upper level seats are being quoted on Stub Hub Tickets at $2,500 to $3,500 and premium lower level seats are going for $6,000 and up! That is just for the game ticket but the bad news for Aztec is that ticket prices are the same for dogs too!

Needless to say the pooch will be at home watching the game on the big screen TV with me. Aztec was 8-2 straight up during the playoffs and a respectable 6-4 against the points but with Da Bears getting 7-points the Dawg is going with the underdog Bears.

Here are 7 reasons to pick Da Bears.

No. 1 - QB Grossman's first appearance in the big game. He will be the game MVP.

No. 2 - Bears 2nd in the NFL in points scored (26.7)

No. 3 - Bears 3rd in the points allowed (15.9)

No. 4 - the game will be played on the 4th and Da Bears will be wearing BLUE.

No. 5 – Bears 5th in NFL in total defense 294 yards compared to the Colts (332 yds).

No. 6 – Bears 6th in NFL in rushing defense (99.6 yds) Colts were 32nd (173 yds.).

No. 7- Is the number of points you may need to win your wager!

Super Bowl XLI – Chicago 24 – Indianapolis 23!

Kings Korner

The Sacramento Kings (17-26) losing woes continue on the road especially after losing on Monday night 124-118 in Memphis after leading through three quarters. The Grizzlies scored 41 points in the final period and while shooting 58 percent. The Kings defense or lack of "D" has allowed more than 124 points in regulation time three times this season and we haven't even reached the midway point of the season.

The Kings have lost 11 of the last 14, but seven of the defeats were by five points or less. The bad news is that three of those losses during this stretch that began January 4th were against teams projected to be in the lottery – Portland, New York, and New Orleans.

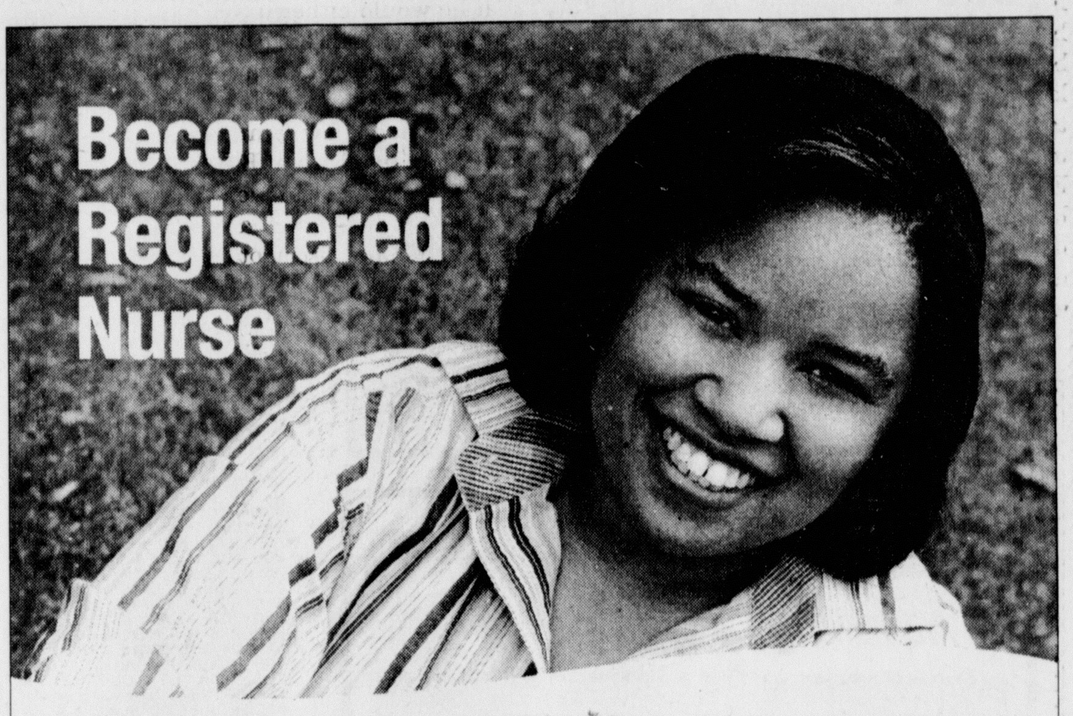

Next up for the Kings is a flight to Minnesota to play the Timberwolves on Wednesday (6 p.m.-CSN) followed by some days off before Iverson, Carmelo and the Nuggets invade the Arco on Saturday night (7 p.m.-CSN).

Between the Ropes

Boxing returns to Sacramento in 2007 on Thursday, February 1st with Woodland Olympian, Vicente Escobedo (12-1, 9 KO's) in 10 round main event against Priest "Tiger" Smalls of Puerto Rico (18-12-1, 6 KO's) at the Arco Arena.

Tickets for the Feather Falls Casino Fight Night Boxing event at ARCO Arena series is on sale now. Ticket prices are $77.25, $52.25, $37.25 and $24.25. Tickets are available by calling Ticketmaster Charge-By-Phone or by visiting the website at www.ticketmaster.com .

Editor's note: The West Sacramento Police Department has ceased making available to the media records of incidents such as burglaries, arson fires, car thefts and other occurrences that don't necessarily result in an arrest. The News-Ledger has requested expanded access to this kind of information once again, as entitled by law. We're still awaiting a response from WSPD.

Jan. 24, 2:01 p.m.

Jan. 24, 5:45 p.m.

An officer stopped a car for a vehicle code violation on Anna Street. The 21-year old woman driving it said her license was suspended. She was arrested on a misdemeanor warrant. Jan. 24, 7:23 p.m.

An officer watched a driver weaving on the road for about a mile, and pulled the car over at Harbor and Sunset. The car had false license plate registration tags. The driver, believed to be under the influence of a narcotic, was arrested.

Jan. 25, 8:29 p.m.

An officer contacted a 20-year old West Sacramento man walking near Lisbon and Hobson. The man admitted recently smoking marijuana, and admitted having methamphetamine in a jacket pocket. The officer located 0.2 grams of the drug there. The subject was arrested.

An officer found a 19-year old F Street man near a parked car that had been reported stolen from Woodland. The man had the ignition key to the vehicle and admitted driving it. He was arrested and booked.

Jan. 25, 11:08 p.m.

Officers responded to a domestic dispute between a man and his ex-girlfriend, living together in Southport. The 38-year old man was arrested after the dispute got physical. The woman's upper arm had a visible injury.

Jan. 25, 11:57 p.m.

Officers contacted multiple subjects with open alcohol containers on the 400-block of G Street. A 28-year old north-area man on parole was arrested: he had been served with the gang injunction and was in violation of curfew. WASHINGTON NEWS ITEMS

The Sacramento River registered 15.4 ft., U. S. gauge at the S. P. bridge yesterday.

Yesterday the preliminary examination of Frank Corcoran and Fred Wilson was held before Judge Barry in the Washington court house. District Attorney Kern came over from Woodland to prosecute the accused men, but evidence introduced by the defendants was so overwhelming that Judge Barry was forced to discharge them. Corcoran and Wilson had been accused of robbing J. Thiriot in his cabin on the camping grounds near the M Street bridge, and Thiriot swore to the complaint against them, but when the accused men were placed before him for identification he failed to recognize them. It was mostly on this account that Judge Barry discharged them. They had spent several days in the county jail under the accusation made against them by Thiriot.

arrested on complaint of his wife for non-support, was discharged yesterday by Judge Barry on the promise that he would return to his family and be good.
and his wife had quarreled over some trivial affair and instead of bringing home the weekly pay envelope, as was his custom, he failed to show up on time and even remained out all night. To this his wife objected seriously and accused him of non-support. District Attorney Kern prosecuted and Judge Barry failed to sentence the culprit so long as his conduct in the future was exemplary.

At its regular meeting last Wednesday night in the Westminster Presbyterian Church, the Washington Star Club decided to extend the age at which young men and boys can become members. The age for initiation now has been placed between 12 and 19 years so as to permit many boys in Washington to enter the club.

An old family consisting of man and wife, who have been camping on Margaret Street, have been helped by the members of the club in the way of food and clothing. They are advanced in years and the boys have been helping them with the funds at their disposal.

In preparation for a busy season during the coming summer, C. Culvert has just finished three new rowboats for use on the river. During a few years past river sports have become more popular and this season is expected to reach a normal that made a splendid showing a few years ago.

Sheiff J. W. Monroe was here last Thursday attending to official business of the county and also spent Monday afternoon in Washington taking care of official affairs of his office.

Arthur Powers, Probation Officer of Yolo County, spent last Thursday in Washington on business connected with his office.

Mrs. F. Smith, sister of Supervisor Leinberger, underwent a slight operation last Monday at the Sisters' Hospital in Sacramento. Yesterday her condition was greatly improved with expectations that she would return to her home tomorrow or Sunday.

Yesterday in Sacramento marriage license was issued to Julius F. Noyes and Nellie T. Gibbs. Noyes gives his age as 36 and Miss Gibbs as 34. Rumors have been current that Julius Noyes was about to quit the ranch of the "boys" and settle down, and here is the climax.

Mrs. J. G. Soule has been around her home during the past week, having entirely recovered from an operation she underwent at the Sisters' Hospital in Sacramento several weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Kinney have left for Vacaville after spending several months in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Luigi Petri (Tosca Da Prato), whose marriage took place in Sacramento on Tuesday, are spending their honeymoon in San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woods of Woodland were week-end visitors at the home of the former's mother, Mrs. Martin McDonough.

Mrs. J. N. Bennett has returned from a visit with her sister, Mrs. Joseph Andrews, in Oakland.

John Burris, familiarly known in Washington as "Buffalo Bill," was stricken with paralysis this week.

YOUNG LADIES DANCE FOR CATHOLIC CHURCH TOMORROW NIGHT

The stage is set for a big time Saturday night in the town hall when the young ladies of the Catholic Church in Washington will have one of their popular dances to help along the church finances.

Most of these young ladies would rather dance than eat, but being sedate girls of common sense they do not believe in marathons that last an unusually long period with one partner.

As a matter of fact, they like to change partners to test the boys out in their ability to keep good time, jazz time, fair time, even any old time.

But the Washington boys all know how to dance, and even some that come from Sacramento and Riverbank and Woodland know how to dance also.

Particularly are the young ladies looking out for next Saturday night, because the best jazz orchestra that could be found has been hired for the occasion.

The finances of the Catholic Church are of such small dimensions that it is necessary for these young ladies and the rest of the parishioners to take a hand to help the church. And the dance being a popular method of recuperation they indulge in that method more than anything else to help out the good cause.

A newspaper clipping from Woodland indicates that a goodly number of the young men from the county seat will be present to shake a foot or take a hand in the dance.

The young ladies in charge are Lillian Lear, Mary Traversi, Mary Anater, Norine Taylor, Mrs. Olga Machado, E. Marty and Eddie Mott.

FIRE DEPARTMENT REORGANIZED UNDER BRIGHT PROSPECTS

Twenty-four young men of Washington joined the reorganized fire department of the town last Monday night at a called meeting in the town hall.

This is the first indication of real life on the part of the fire department that has been exemplified for several years.

In fact, since the war the volnnteer fire department of Washington has practically been more or less of an excuse. Fortunately, there have been no bad fires and no real conflagrations that demanded a strenuous effort on the part of the volunteer fire department.

But the day may be at hand when the services of a well equipped fire department may be necessary and the step taken last Monday night may avail the taxpayers and residents of Washington very much in the near future.

To help along the organization, temporary officers were elected last Monday night. Dave Barry was named temporary chairman and William Bartle, secretary-treasurer.

Another meeting is to be called for next Monday, April 23d, when another class will be initiated by the volunteer firemen and these initiations will continue so long as there remain any young men in the town who should be members of the fire department and have not joined.

On May 14th the first regular annual election of officers of the volunteer fire department will take place.

At that meeting a permanent chief of that department and permanent officers will be selected by the members, and during the summer months it is proposed that regular fire drills will be held at intervals to accustom the boys to the duties they must and should perform when their services are called to extinguish flames.

It is the intention to raise the membership of the volunteer fire department to 150, but at least there must not be less than 100.

All young men of the town, resident or taxpayers over 16 years of age and able to lift a hose, are eligible to membership in the volunteer fire department.

DON'T TRY WOODLAND-ELKHORN ROAD UNTIL PUDDLES HAVE GONE

Late rains have rendered the tule road from Woodland east to Elkhorn, impassable. Before the April showers, many motorists were taking the shorter route to Sacramento. The new highway from Washington to within two miles of Elkhorn affords a picturesque drive along the edge of the river. It will be a matter of a few days, however, before it is again advisable to use the road from Woodland to Elkhorn.

TOM SNIDER'S DEATH CAUSED BY PARALYSIS

A lifelong Democrat, a native of Louisana, a Supervisor of Yolo County during nineteen years, a railroad contractor during fifteen years, and a staunch and progressive citizen, Thomas Connell Snider died at the Napa Hospital last Sunday, April 15th, after several months lingering sickness.

Tom Snider, as he was familiarly known, knew every inch of Yolo County and had witnessed all the vicissitudes of a pioneer when the county was far from being safe from inundation by the Sacramento River.

At an early age he came with his parents from Shreveport, La., the place of his birth. He attended the local schools and was graduated from the Sacramento High School, subsequently he was graduated from a business college in San Francisco and was elected Supervisor at the age of 29 years.

Prior to his election he had been appointed to the position by Governor Stoneman.

During several years, Tom Snider raised blooded stock and his troubles and worries in this business were without number, for his ranch (the old Conrad Ranch) was inundated several times.

Despairing of making a success of dairying or stock raising, he settled with his wife in Washington after being appointed Supervisor of Yolo County. It was then that he launched into the contracting business.

Following his retirement from membership in the Board of Supervisors, he became a sub-contractor for the Southern Pacific Company and took a hand in the reclamation of the Salton Sea, now known as the Imperial Valley. He built eight miles of grade for the Western Pacific. He built fifteen miles of grade for the railroad that hauled material for the Los Angeles water works, and he graded fifteen miles of track for the Santa Fe in Arizona.

For the Clark interests near Jerome, Arizona, he did a great deal of railroad work, and it was in this section that Tom Snider met with the accident that really ended in his demise.

Harnessing a mulish mule, he was thrown several feet, to land on his back, which caused a fracture of the spinal column and a dislocation of the hip that never healed properly and from which injury he was a cripple until his death.

Returning to Washington about three years ago, he settled down to end his days in the home that he built many years ago and which is now occupied by his surviving wife.

About a year ago Tom Snider partly lost his mental faculties and for four months was confined in the Sisters' Hospital in Sacramento. Lately he was cared for in the Napa Hospital during a period of four months.

Besides his wife, he left many relatives to mourn him, among them being Mrs. Lizzie Glide, an extensive property owner in West Sacramento; Preston Lykins, Mrs. Kate Smith, John and William Snider.

His funeral took place last Wednesday from a Sacramento undertaking parlor, the pall-bearers being J. W. Monroe, Sheriff; W. O. Russell, Supervisor; Constable Henry Buckingham, Ed Hanson, L. Burns and E. Van Tassel.

Interment was in the City Cemetery, Sacramento.

WASHINGTON STREETS CLOSED BY ORDER OF YOLO SUPERVISORS

By unanimous vote of the Board of Supervisors at the meeting held in Woodland last Monday, the streets west of Sixth Street and north of Ann Street were closed in response to a petition by E. Albericci and F. Bertagna.

There were no protests made before the board against the closing of these streets, although for several weeks the Independent has been telling the property owners of the town all about the petition and all about the reasons for and against the closing of these streets.

Noting the opposition the Supervisors took definite action and condemned the streets in the locality above specified.

During many years, or since the town was originally mapped, these streets have remained closed and have practically been of no use to the citizens of the community.

According to promise made by Albericci, it is the intention of Bertagna and himself to reopen streets in this tract so as to make smaller lots, smaller avenues, smaller alleyways for immediate development.

As a matter of fact, the owners of the property abutting on these streets have started to develop it in the way of cutting down old trees and leveling the land within the 30-acre patch.

When the improvements are completed it is the intention of these owners to cut new streets through the property and sell off the land in smaller batches to meet the requirements of working men who need homesites and who intend to build homes.

Albericci said to the writer a few weeks ago:

"We are not going to delay the development of this tract, but on the contrary we are going to have the patch surveyed immediately and the lines drawn for new lots and new subdivisions. We will make smaller lots with rear entrances from the alley that will be within the means of any working man to build his home, for that was our purpose when we purchased the tract some time ago."

This may be an unkind old world. But don't forget the eulogies that are lavished at funerals.

News-Ledger Editorial

Laying the groundwork for SMUD sequel

It's a shame that Yolo and Sacramento counties both voted down the attempt by SMUD, the publicly-owned Sacramento electricity provider, to take over service from PG&E in Yolo County. The deal was a money-saver to West Sacramento and Yolo County.

While it is relatively easy to see why Sacramentans were reluctant to approve the change – they have good, cheap electricity from SMUD and they may perceive expansion of SMUD as "rocking their boat" – it's tougher to understand why Yolo County couldn't muster 50 percent support. Any reasonable analysis showed that SMUD's rates were cheaper than those of profit-motivated PG&E. And there was plenty of room in the deal even for some of the threatened "surprise" costs of the takeover that were promised by PG&E. Residents, businesses and institutions would all have saved money.

One political principal held true in this election. To get people to vote for a yes-or-no proposition, you need to convince them it's a good idea. But to get them to vote "no," you do not, conversely, need to prove that it's a bad idea. You just have to raise doubt, confusion and uncertainty. Enough of that, and people will vote "no."

So in a ballot measure campaign, the advantage goes to the opposition, if that opposition has enough money to fund a vigorous campaign. In this campaign, the opposition certainly did. PG&E has reported spending at least $11 million in its anti-SMUD campaign, while SMUD, prohibited from using taxpayer dollars in a political campaign, largely sat on the sidelines during the campaign leading up to November.

On the bright side: the SMUD campaign started with some activists in Davis, and those activists probably won't ever give up their dream of dumping PG&E in favor of some kind of MUD (municipal utilities district). This effort should be a regional one, carefully laying the groundwork for a future attempt to have a better and cheaper Yolo County electrical provider.

At the very least, the presence of such an effort would help ensure PG&E gives the region the service and attention it deserves.

The right to spank

All parents and informed citizens should be concerned about a bill introduced by State Assemblywoman Sally Lieber (D-Mountainview) that would outlaw parents from spanking their own children up to three years old. When asked about the bill, Governor Schwarzenegger's initial comment was, "How do you enforce it?" That is not the point. Ordering parents to stop using their own method of discipline is morally wrong. It is contrary to freedom and our way of life. Lawmakers even considering such an unconscionable measure just don't get it.

"To spank or not to spank" is always open to discussion, of a practice passed from generation to generation, often instilled by religious beliefs. Ultimately the choice of discipline used is a private matter in the hands of individual parents and families who know what is best for their own children. It is not a handful of legislators to decide and impose their will on the daily lives of 35 billion people.

If this bill were to become law, a violation would be a misdemeanor punishable by up to a year in a jail and a fine of up to $1,000. Instances of child abuse, which this misguided proposal attempts to correct, are already handled by adequate laws. The real ramifications this proposal would lead to are chilling. It would result in parents being afraid to discipline or touch their children, children growing up without a healthy respect for parents or authority, and neighbors reporting each other to state authorities, as is happening in China. Parents trying to lovingly discipline their children in a Christian upbringing would be suspect by the secular state.

Members of Ms. Lieber's party get elected by promoting the false perception that they are watching out for the little guy, and helping working families, and (I cringe whenever I hear this) they are planning legislation or policies "for the children." We never hear a peep out of them about some of the changes they intend to impose on our social order when they are running for office. Once in power, they use their majority position to suddenly unleash sweeping and radical reforms in their hidden agenda. Your silence and failure to pay attention are all they need to ram through legislation which tramples on our liberty against the will of the people.

In the good old days, do-gooders in high places who tried to interfere in the private affairs of our families would have faced the opposition of a citizen's committee carrying torches and pitchforks. Right now, alarm bills should be going off. Let lawmakers know they have crossed the line and we won't stand for any more government control of our lives. What will it take to wake people up? Suppose we found out someone was pouring arsenic in our water supply. We would instantly be up in arms to save ourselves and our children. Be careful who you vote for and watch how they vote. Don't let them get away with slowly poisoning the waters of freedom. Wake up!

The idea of Go Figure is to arrive at the figures given at the bottom and right-hand columns of the diagram by following the arithmetic signs in the order they are given (that is, from left to right and top to bottom). Use only the numbers below the diagram to complete its blank squares and use each of the nine numbers only once.

Fave Foods OF THE FAMOUS

by Steven Austin

Michael C. Herbert

Joe Horn

New Orleans Saints wide receiver Joe Horn continues to set records on the field while also helping to rebuild New Orleans along with other NFL stars. Each week during the regular season, Horn plus fellow pass catchers Larry Fitzgerald of the Arizona Cardinals, Steve Smith of the Carolina Panthers and Joe Jurevicius of the Cleveland Browns take part in weekly "Alltel Audibles" podcasts, which are hosted by a member of the local broadcast team. During each recording, the stars discuss the previous week's game, injury reports, a look ahead at the upcoming match-up and little-known, fun facts about the athletes, such as favorite restaurants, foods, songs, etc. The promotion entitled, "My Celebrity Circle," is part of a season-long consumer promotion with cellular provider Alltel Wireless. To learn more: www.alltelcircle.com/87 and www.neworleanssaints.com

New Orleans has always been known as a top international dining destination. How are things coming back after Hurricane Katrina?

"Everything is coming back very well. My favorite restaurants, Ruth's Chris and Morton's Steakhouse, and most of the major seafood restaurants are back up and running. I'm very excited about that. Everyone needs to come back and visit The Big Easy."

What concession foods at the Superdome are unique?

"I think they upsized the daiquiris, and the cups and bowls for gumbo and other foods. They made everything bigger! There is different lighting in the Dome all around. Lots of great improvements. It's very exciting for the fans to see different things now."

How big is your kitchen at home, and what are your favorite gadgets?

"I don't do a lot of cooking. My wife cooks most of the time, or our nanny cooks. My kitchen is normal-sized, as my current house isn't that big. My spatula and knives are my favorite gadgets. This knife set that we ordered a couple years ago is the one we still use. I cut up a lot of my fruit, apples, and oranges. I use my spatula to cook up my flat eggs."

Who on the Saints can eat the most food at one sitting?

"Defensive tackle Hollis Thomas. Definitely."

What's the food like on the team plane?

"The food is decent, very good. The most exciting part about our food on the team plane is the great group of flight attendants who serve it to us. They are very nice, kind and polite. The food is definitely better that way."

CRITIC'S CORNER

By D.N.A Smith

"The Good Shepherd"

Running time: 167 minutes
MPAA rating: R

I'm a huge Robert De Niro fan. Even when he's phoning-in his performances (like in "Meet the Parents"), he's always a commanding presence onscreen.

But I'm not so sure about him as a director.

"The Good Shepherd," which De Niro directs, is a visually outstanding film. Its somber gray tones and deep shadows fit the subject — the origins of the Central Intelligence Agency.

The casting is outstanding (as are the performances). I mean, how can you go wrong with a troupe comprised of Matt Damon, Angelina Jolie, Alec Baldwin and De Niro himself?

Where "The Good Shepherd" falls down is in the film's length and pace. This a long, mostly boring film that just plain wears you out. This is weird because the performances are so solid, but not enough to jumpstart this sluggish monster of a movie.

"The Good Shepherd" begins and ends with The Bay of Pigs fiasco. In between, it follows the life of Edward Wilson (Damon), a composite character (although the bulk of his character is based on spy catcher James Angleton), and his involvement in the formation of the CIA.

The best part of the film takes place at Yale University, where Wilson is initiated into The Skull and Bones, a secret society from which most CIA members would be drawn (even President G.H.W. Bush, a former Bones-man, was head of the CIA).

Angelina Jolie, Matt Damon

Sadly, after the Yale and post-war Berlin sequences, the film just grinds to a halt, never to recover.

It's a shame. With a little judicious trimming, "The Good Shepherd" could have been one of the best pictures of the year. Instead, it's another also-ran best seen when it comes to cable.

(NAPS)—Today's modern mom, who often balances work, family life and household responsibilities, does not get enough sleep—a potentially chronic problem that can take a toll on the whole family. To help, actress Debi Mazar has teamed up with sleep specialist Suzanne Griffin, M.D., FAPA, Clinical Psychiatrist, of Georgetown University Hospital, to lead the "Sleepless Moms" campaign. The campaign's goal is to let sleepless parents know that they are not alone and to provide useful information about sleep hygiene and educational resources on insomnia and its treatments. To Prepare
1. Preheat oven to 500º F.
2. Simmer jam, Zinfandel, five-spice powder, salt and pepper in a small saucepan, stirring until jam is melted, about 3 minutes. Pour glaze through a fine-mesh sieve into a small bowl, pressing on and discarding solids; then set aside to cool.
3. In a large 8-quart stockpot, combine rib racks and water with peppercorns, dried red pepper flakes and salt. Bring contents of pot to a rolling boil. Cut each rack in half; then parboil ribs for 15-20 minutes. Remove from water and pat dry. Make incisions between each bone, being careful to not cut completely through. Transfer ribs to an oven-safe roasting pan.
4. Brush each side liberally with plum glaze. Place in oven and roast for an additional 15-20 minutes, turning twice to ensure even cooking. Brush on additional glaze each time you turn the racks over. Turn oven to "Broil", move ribs directly under heat and cook for 2 minutes. Remove from oven and let stand 5 to 8 minutes before serving. Place a 1/2 rack onto each plate and sprinkle with green onions. Serve with a fruity California Zinfandel!
